DETAILED ACTION

Claim Objections

1. Claims 12-16 are objected to because of the following informalities: the phrase "may be" on the fourth line from the bottom of claim 12 makes the claim unclear whether what's following the phrase is a part of claim or not. It is recommended changing to "is" or an appropriate correction is required.

Allowable Subject Matter

2. Claims 1-22 are allowed.

3. The following is a statement of reasons for the indication of allowable subject matter: claims are allowable at least for the reason that the prior art does not teach or reasonably suggest the at least two teeth of the detent element that are engaged with at least two of the cuts in the counter surface, the detent joint locks the first and second hinge elements in the one detent position (claim 1); the detent element that is being moved along the second axis while engaging between the contoured surface and locking the first and second hinge pieces in the selected positions (claim 12) or the detent element that carried in the slide bearing and movable along the second axis, the detent element having an engagement surface adapted to engage with the counter surface to position (claim 17) as set forth in the claimed combination.

Martin (US 6,183,098 B1) discloses a detent joint (Fig. 1, 24), first and second hinge pieces (30, 50), but does not disclose the at least two teeth of the detent element that are engaged with at least two of the cuts in the counter surface, the detent joint locks the first and second hinge elements in the one detent position; the detent element that is being moved along the second axis while engaging between the contoured surface and locking the first and second hinge pieces in the selected positions or the detent element that carried in the slide bearing and movable along the second axis, the detent element having an engagement surface adapted to engage with the counter surface to position.
